

Khalilah Slater Harrington, Chief Program Officer, Family League of Baltimore

Khalilah Slater Harrington is a respected leader who is driven by a life-long passion to achieve social justice through education, equity and community engagement.

Khalilah serves as Chief Program Officer of Family League of Baltimore, a Baltimore based nonprofit that serves as an architect of change by promoting data-driven, collaborative initiatives and aligning resources to create lasting outcomes for children, families, and communities. She leverages over 20 years of experience in the nonprofit sector to guide the design, development and implementation of investment strategies that drive large-scale community improvement through partnership with local leaders and organizations.

Prior to joining Family League in 2017, Khalilah was Program Manager for the Bainum Family Foundation in Bethesda, Maryland, where she developed comprehensive strategies to support educational programs and projects that assist children from early childhood through post-secondary school.

Khalilah previously worked with a variety of organizations in Cincinnati, Ohio, including Cincinnati Public Schools, The KnowledgeWorks Foundation, and The Urban League of Greater Cincinnati, managing and directing youth-serving programs, developing community partnerships, and enhancing summer learning opportunities for students at low-performing schools.

Khalilah holds a bachelor's degree in English Literature and a master's degree in Education from the University of Cincinnati. She lives in Baltimore, Maryland with her husband, Pickett, and their children Addison and Alexander.