AT&T Achievery empowers students with engaging and educational online content by delivering top-tier digital learning resources. NSLA will use the Achievery within their network of national award-winning summer learning programs, summer camps, public and affordable housing programs, libraries, and charter schools to help close the digital divide and opportunity gaps among underserved K-12 students.

"At NSLA, we are dedicated to expanding educational access and opportunity for all students, regardless of background, income, or zip code," said Aaron P. Dworkin, CEO of NSLA. "Our collaboration with AT&T aligns perfectly with our mission, and we look forward to working together to offer their free digital learning platform to support student learning across the nation."

By collaborating with NSLA and integrating The Achievery platform, more students will have access to entertaining, engaging, and inspiring educational content that aligns with academic standards. AT&T and NSLA will focus on supporting teachers, parents, and learning facilitators to ensure that students have access to the tools and resources they need to thrive in today's digital landscape.

"Igniting a curiosity and passion to learn are the driving force behind our development of The Achievery. Our vision is to extend the horizons of education beyond the traditional classroom, nurturing a generation of enthusiastic, life-long learners," expressed Mylayna Albright, Assistant Vice President of Corporate Responsibility at AT&T. "We are extremely excited about our latest collaboration with the National Summer Learning Association, as it is a great opportunity to collectively touch the lives of thousands of students and serve as a gateway to higher achievement."
